Weather: Clear

Water temperature 18.3°C.

As this summer's heat wave continues into autumn the most important thing to keep in mind when rearing flounder and abalone is the water temperature. For flounder, 20°C is just right and comfortable, but for abalone, this is too high and will cause them to weaken. Therefore, we keep the water temperature at about 18°C, which is a little low for flatfish, but they manage.
